Fall is upon us. We have sooo many events to look forward to.

The Octoberfest looks to be a fun event with a veteran committee doing the planning. It will have great food, drink and music.

The Monster Mash follows soon after with lots of scary treats.

Make sure that your calendars are marked for a play, "Heaven is Calling", written by the late, great, Joe D'Amato. This play and presentation will be presented on Thursday, November 2nd, for our Dinner of the Month. This will be a fitting tribute to our friend, Joe.

The Director's Ball is coming up very quickly. Shine your shoes, dust off your tux and maybe buy a new dress? It promises to be a blast.

At this time, I would like to ask people to answer the call and volunteer their time in service of board participation. The nominating committee is forming now. Members' help in managing our club is one of the most important ways for members to engage. It adds to the strength of the Lyceum. If you have an interest in serving on the Lyceum's Board of Directors, please contact me.

Stay tuned, watch for your Forums and updates to make sure that you don't miss all that the Lyceum has to offer.

Many blessings,

Heather Geary

For many years, Joe D'Amato was the Lyceum Drama Program. Whether it was writing original plays, directing, or acting; he did it all. This fall's production - Heaven is Calling - is Joe's final play, one that has never been shown before.

The evening will begin with appetizers and drinks, plus an Italian-themed dinner catered by Maggiano's. After dessert you'll be treated to a short video featuring highlights of Joe's many productions before the curtain rises for the premiere of Heaven is Calling, a brief bittersweet tale of a couple reuniting between Heaven and Earth.

The play will run this night only, so make sure you reserve your place in history to see Joe D'Amato's final drama production.

Paddle

Hey Paddle Friends!

We had a busy Summer on the Tennis and Pickle courts and I'm hoping to continue that momentum into Paddle season. Going into October, we'll kick off our first Moonlight event. Men's Open Play will take place on Sundays and Women's on Wednesdays. Quadrants will take place on Saturday mornings, per usual. And, of course, lessons are always available upon request. I'm looking forward to getting to know each of you better and if we haven't met yet, feel free to drop me a message- Sports@glendalelyceum.com
